

Country-Specific Requirements for Exporting Pets

CANADA

AGE

All puppies under the age of 8 months require an import permit before they are allowed entry into Canada. Pups/Kittens under the age of 3 months may fly on proof of their mothers Rabies Vaccine. Animals older than 12 weeks require their own Rabies vaccine.

MICROCHIP

The first step to exporting any pet is to ensure your pet is micro chipped. This step must be done before any vaccine is administered. The pet's microchip must be at least as old as the Rabies vaccination used for the export documents. The microchip must be a valid ISO microchip and has to be implanted by a registered vet.

RABIES VACCINATIONS

A rabies vaccination, older than 31 days, but no older than a year at the date of travel, must be administered. For export purposes Rabies is an annual vaccine.

RABIES ANTIBODY TEST (RNATT)

No Blood Test is required for entry into Canada

VACCINATIONS

It is always recommended to keep annual vaccinations up to date in all pets. This should be done according to a vet's directions. If any sort of kenneling will be required before or after the flight, kennel cough and snuffles vaccinations are a must. Deworming is to be kept up to date.

WORM TREATMENT

All dogs traveling to the US are required to be inspected by a private Vet to ensure pets are free of worms

EXPORT HEALTH CERTIFICATES

An official Veterinary Health Certificate, issued by a private vet, will be required. This certificate proves compliance with all regulations. This certificate does not need to be endorsed by State Vet. This should be done within 10 days prior to the flight.

IMPORT PERMITS & QUARANTINE

Import permit is required for puppies under the age of 8 months

Quarantine is not a requirement into the Canada
